

Oral and Maxillofacial Surgeon – Vancouver Acute

Job Type: Part time

Work sites: VGH, UBCH and DHCC

Hours of work: Varies. Depending on after hours call schedule and patient clinic needs

Start date: October 1, 2021

The Role

Join a team of Oral and Maxillofacial surgeons providing comprehensive call coverage for Vancouver General Hospital along with management of medically complex patients in our outpatient dental clinic. The Department of Dentistry comprises a group of dedicated and collegial providers who provide 24/7 call coverage for the emergency centre along with providing ward consults and dental care both in the operating theatre and outpatient clinic setting. As a centre for tertiary care, we are also responsible for transfers of patients from across the province when local coverage is lacking.

Who We Are

Vancouver Coastal Health is one of British Columbia's five regional health authorities, Vancouver Coastal Health (VCH) is a world class innovator in medical care, research and teaching, delivering service to more than one million BC residents. Dedicated to coming together as one collective health care team to deliver an exceptional care experience for all, we care for everyone, are always learning and striving for better results. We bring together the resources of 13 hospitals, a number of community health centres, 2,500 physicians, more than 13,500 full time staff, and over $3 billion in funding. It has an active and supportive research arm in VCH Research Institute and has affiliations with a number of academic institutions.

Vancouver General Hospital is a fully accredited and equipped community hospital with over a 1,000 acute (and residential) care beds serving both the patients of Vancouver and from across the province. It has 21 operating rooms, 40 outpatient clinics and a single emergency department. The hospital has a wide range of medical services for the community including ICU, CCU and interventional radiology. Patients are supported by both social workers and dietitians.

VGH is also a teaching hospital that is part of the network of hospitals that supports the University of British Columbia undergraduate dental residency program. Many clinical services have rotations of dental students and residents. An academic appointment is encouraged.

What You'll Do

Join a group of six Oral and Maxillofacial surgeons and develop a hospital practice alongside your own community based office work. On call services are provided in a 1 in 6 (or 1 in 7) rotation. You will be part of the Division of Oral and Maxillofacial surgery in the Department of Dentistry with a talented, dedicated and collegial group who work together to provide excellent patient care. Your role will include emergency consultations / surgical care – both elective and emergency, in patient care for trauma and infection patients and, in time, access to elective surgical time both at UBC and VGH. You will also be involved in the teaching of dental residents while on rotation at VGH.

Who You Are (select appropriate bullets and add additional descriptors as needed)

- An Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery (OMFS) graduate from an accredited program.
- Certified as an Oral and Maxillofacial surgeon specialist by the Royal College of Dentists of Canada (RCDC) or its equivalent.
- Provincial license to practice Dentistry from the College of Dental Surgeons of BC.
- Candidates must also obtain a Canadian Medical Protective Association (CMPA) or CDSPI membership.
- Passionate: Passionate about patient welfare you understand the importance of delivering high quality care in the context of complex health care systems.
- A Strong Communicator: Understanding the importance of continuous and effective communication, you are highly skilled at listening, engaging and consulting with diverse stakeholders including patients, internal and external healthcare professionals and caseworker teams.
- A Leader: have the ability to pull together the appropriate data and resources to make sound decisions that are based on fact and supported rationale. The common sense and good judgement to 'make the call' or understand the risks associated with certain decisions and able to work well under pressure.
- An educator: have the ability to inspire lifelong learning in students, residents, nurses and colleagues. You are committed to knowing best practices and communicating them effectively to those around you.
- A researcher: you have a commitment and a proven track record as a researcher. You have successfully applied for grants and brought forward articles for publication.

Interested applicants, please email your cover letter, CV and any other relevant documents for review to debbie.fonseca@vch.ca